Points About Poultry.

Pullets become hens after they moult.

Hens that lay well are neither hungry nor fat.

A safe rule is to keep a hen as long as she is profitable.

Hens with scabby legs should not be set, as it is catching.

Almost any of the larger breeds are the best for the table.

As the weather becomes warmer be careful not to crowd the fowls.

Many of the ailments in the poultry yard arise either from cold or indigestion.

Try to arrange the poultry yards so that the chickens can have the morning sun.

Supplying plenty of broken crockeryware will often keep the hens from pulling feathers.

When turkeys are first hatched they need a little food often, rather than large feeds occasionally.

Turkeys will thrive better if they can have the run of good pastures on well-drained soil.

Mark all eggs when set, with the date, so that if eggs are laid to them they can be taken out.

Ducks are enormous eaters, and sometimes it is difficult to determine when they have had enough.

Young ducks must be kept out of the water, as they are liable to get chilled, and often this will prove fatal.

A half teaspoonful of glauber's salts dissolved in water is recommended as a good cure for cholera among fowls.

With goings it is important to give abundant nourishment from the start in order to secure a good growth.

It is only in exceptional cases that it can be made profitable to keep poultry confined on the farm. Give them a free range.

Guinea eggs should not be set for hatching until warm, settled weather. The chicks are very tender at first and need the best of care.

Twenty eggs is a good average for geese; they are not near so prolific layers as ducks, and unless they commence laying very early will lay only one clutch.

After the first two or three days it is important that young poultry should be provided with a good variety of food in order to maintain a healthy growth.

If young chickens are well fed so as to make a rapid growth they ought to be ready to market when they are six weeks, and at latest when they are two months old.

Corn meal mixed with sweet milk and hard-boiled eggs chopped up fine makes an excellent ration for young turkeys. If well fed from the start turkeys should be ready to market by the time they are seven months old.

"Prepotency of race may," says Housman, "be mistaken for prepotency of sex. We have abundant evidence that, if the female parent is pure bred from a long established race of uniform type, and the male parent from mixed races of strongly different types, the probability of the dam's prepotency is very great. The prepotency she owes, not to her sex, but to her race. Her influence is undivided, concentrated in the direction of one type. The influence of the cross bred or mongrel sire, on the other hand, is weakened by the conflicting efforts of two or more breeds, to assert themselves." It is a broken and comparatively powerless influence, while that of the dam is whole and very powerful. By the same law which gives the pure-bred female her superiority of power when breeding to a mongrel or to a cross-bred male, the male of a pure race has prepotency over the female with mixed blood. This is no mere guess, no theory unsupported by facts. It has been proved by experiment as often as experiment has been fairly used to test it. We must admit, therefore, that under some conditions the male influence predominates; and, if so, it follows that any theory regarding the general superiority of the female over the male influence must be subject to discount in respect of conditions, which may and do throw the overweight into the sire's side of the scale."

Is Life Worth Living?

Not if you go through the world a dyspeptic. Dr. Acker's Dyspepsia Tablets are a positive cure for the worst forms of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Flatulency and Constipation. Guaranteed and sold by T. G. Julian, druggist.

FOR THE LADIES.

BAKED APPLES WITH DATES.—Pare and core some tart apples; fill the opening in the centre with dates and sugar. Put them in a baking-dish and pour a little water over them; bake carefully.

APPLE GRIDDLE-CAKES.—Make a batter of flour and milk and eggs; stir into it enough chopped apple to have that fruit well represented in each cake; fry on a griddle and eat with maple syrup.—[The Home-Maker.

CLEAR SOUPS.—Remove the fat from cold soup, add such seasoning as is desired, and the beaten white and shell of an egg for 2 quarts of stock. Stir till hot, leave it to simmer for twenty minutes. Strain through a napkin.

SWEET PLEIN PUDDING.—One cupful of chopped suet, 3 cupfuls of flour, 1 cupful of molasses, 1 cupful of currants, 1 cupful of milk, 1 cupful of raisins (stoned), 2 teaspoonfuls of soda, 1 teaspoonful spice. Boil 4 hours. Should always be served hot.

COLD SAUCE.—Beat the white of 1 egg with enough powdered sugar to make a thick but not stiff mixture. Flavor, and then beat in thoroughly 1 cupful of melted butter (measure before melting). Pipe up on a fancy dish. It melts in 'foam' on hot pudding.

CARAMEL FOR COLORING SOUPS AND GRAVIES.—Put 1 cup of sugar in a frying pan, stir constantly until it browns all over, until it loses its sweetness but is not burned. Gradually add 1 cupful hot water. This will keep for months, and a teaspoonful will give color and flavor to pale soups and gravies.

DELICIOUS SPONGE CAKE.—Beat the yolks and whites of 2 eggs separately, and mix nearly all of 1 cup of sugar with the whites, the rest with the yolks. Add 1 cup flour, 1 generous teaspoonful baking powder, and 1 teaspoonful salt. After mixing all these well together, add 1 cup boiling water.

HOT SAUCE.—Set a bowl in a basin of hot water, trussing so as to keep it hot. In the bowl, 1 egg and 1 cupful of sugar; flavor. When ready to serve, beat in 1 cupful of boiling milk. Stir as it is served, so it will be thick only on top. Wine will improve the sauce in addition to vanilla.—[Good Housekeeping.

FRUIT COOKIES.—I delight in cooking and in inventing new recipes. This is my latest experiment: One cupful of fruit, equal parts of seeded raisins, currants and citron, 1 cupful of suet-fat, 1 cupful of nice molasses, 1 cupful of white sugar, 3 eggs, 1 cupful sweet milk, an even teaspoonful of salt and 1 of soda dissolved in it, 1 moderately heaped teaspoonful each of clove, allspice, cinnamon, mace and nutmeg; sufficient flour to roll smooth, with 1 teaspoonful of cream tartar sifted in a pan of it; roll 1/4 of an inch thick, cut in round cakes and bake in a moderately hot oven. I think these cookies would keep well if I had some place to hide them away in.—[August Flower in Arthur's Magazine.

SOUP STOCK.—Use beef, mutton or veal, separately or together, half meat and half bone. Some cooked meat may be used. To each pound of meat and bone allow 1 quart of cold water. Let it soak for an hour, then heat slowly and simmer, not boil, for 5 or 6 hours closely covered. Strain and cool.

For seasoning for 2 pounds of meat use part or all of these: One teaspoonful salt, 6 peppercorns, 3 cloves, 1 very small onion, sprigs of parsley, marjoram, thyme, summer savory, a bay leaf, etc., etc. These may be added an hour before straining or after it is cooled and the fat removed. This is a common stock known as consommé. Beef, mutton and browned meats give brown stock. Chicken, veal, and some fish give white stock.

CONSOMME A LA ROYALE.—Beat 2 eggs slightly, add 2 tablespoonfuls milk or stock and 1 teaspoonful salt. Cook slowly in a cup set in hot water. Cool and cut in fancy shapes. Put in the tureen and pour over it 1 quart of hot stock.

Most soups take their names from the grain or vegetables in them. Rice, macaroni, tapioca, vermicelli and vegetables should be first be cooked tender in boiling salted water, then strained and added to the hot stock, green peas, strained tomatoes.

CROUTONS. are often served with soups. These are cubes of stale bread browned in the oven or fried in dip fat.

Crisped crackers, prepared by spreading crackers with butter and browning in the oven, may be served with chowders and white soups.

CHOCOLATE CREAM.

One quart hot white stock, 1 pint hot milk or cream. In 1 tablespoonful of butter cook 1 tablespoonful chopped onion and 2 tablespoonfuls chopped celery, or add celery salt, then add 1 tablespoonful flour or cornstarch, add gradually to the stock. Season with salt and pepper. Strain to remove onion and celery if desired. Two beaten eggs may be strained into the hot soup as it placed in the tureen. Whipped cream may be placed on top.

CHOCOLATE CREAM.—One square or 1 ounce chocolate, 1 pint milk, 1/2 box gelatine, 1 cup sugar, 1 pint cream, 1 teaspoonful vanilla, a speck of salt.

Melt the chocolate, gradually add half the milk, add the sugar and the gelatine, which has soaked for 1 hour in the remainder of the milk. Strain and cool, then add the vanilla and salt. Whip the cream and mix with the chocolate as it thickens. Mould and serve with whipped cream. Use 2 ounces chocolate for stronger flavor.

STOCK AND STOCKMEN.

The chief impurities of water may be classed as organic and inorganic. The organic impurities are either animal or vegetable substances. The salt of the metals are the inorganic impurities. Lime causes hardness of water. Salts of lead, iron and copper are also frequently found in water. About the only examination of water that can be made by the average stock raiser is to observe its taste, color, smell and clearness. Pure water is clear and without taste or smell. It should possess a slight bluish tint.

The Breeders' Gazette, commenting on the "Woodburn" sale of Shorthorns at Chicago recently, says: "This dispersion drew together what was beyond all question the largest and most thoroughly representative crowd of Shorthorn breeders seen about any one sale ring in the United States during the past five years—a fact which demonstrates that leading breeders still retain their interest in this work in spite of long-continued depression. The weather was perfect and there were at least 300 people in the sale pavilion when Col. R. E. Edmonson mounted the rostrum to begin work. Considerable speculation had been indulged in before the sale as to the probable result. It was evident that there were any number of breeders present who would add a Duchess or two to their herds if it could be done at 'slaughter' prices; but there were no fanciers at hand to carry the bidding into the four figures. There were numerous complaints from leading breeders as to the condition of the older cattle. It was clear that the 'corn-crib' cross had not been used very freely in the case of breeding animals. They were evidently fresh from the pastures. While it is true that more flesh might have improved their appearance we must confess to some degree of surprise that an objection of this nature should be urged by the veterans in this trade. That the free use of corn and cake would have led the public to set a higher estimate upon the individual character of the older cows and breeding bulls was self-evident, but it will scarcely be claimed that big flesh would have enhanced the value of the cattle for breeding purposes. Still declaim as we may against feeding for the sale ring, it is the fat beast that commands bids, and it goes without saying that Mr. Alexander would have received a good price for all the feed he might have seen fit to shovel in his older cattle. The young Dukes were carrying plenty of flesh and were very much admired. The heaviest buyers of Duchesses were the Messrs. Brown and Smith, of Sangamon county, Ill., and it is scarcely necessary to say that the cattle they have secured will find in their new quarters surroundings in every way equal in point of character of soil, grass, pastures, water, etc., to those enjoyed at 'Woodburn.' In fact there are no more attractive or more valuable farms in the West than are owned by the Sangamon county breeders referred to, and they have the satisfaction of knowing that within twenty-four hours after the conclusion of the sale they, in common with other buyers of Duchesses, could have transferred the cattle to other breeders at private sale at quite a substantial advance. There were fifty-six females sold, and brought $14,230, thus averaging the fifteen bulls sold for $3,990, averaging $266."

That Terrible Cough.

Agricultural Hints.

A large crop of watermelons, H thought, has been planted in Tennessee.

Wheat in the southern section of the State will be harvested next week.

Early corn looks very well and is now growing nicely.

Clover and Irish potatoes suffered from drouth.

Fruit is falling off the trees in all parts of the State from the effects of the little borer. Growers say the being left is healthy, and will be for in quality.

Corn, wheat and garden vegetables in a large section of East Tennessee were seriously damaged by hail on nights ago.

Prospects for wheat are not so good as have been for several years. The stands are the rule, filling out well, but late for it to do so.

The enormous corn crop of Indiana will be in a large section of East Tennessee in a few days.

Of the earlier varieties are already ripe now, and the growers are already looking ahead for the crop.
